

Our PreK students are hard at work! Help them identify all their big "K's and little "k"s!

Celebrate African-American inventors for Black History Month!

- Let's spend some time learning about the important contributions of African-American inventors. For instance, Garrett Morgan who invented the three-color traffic light!
- Explain to your child that traffic lights used to just have two colors - red for stop and green for go. It was very unsafe because drivers didn't have a warning before they would have to stop. Garrett Morgan developed a traffic light that included a yellow light to warn drivers that they would need to stop soon.
- Make a traffic light with your child using construction paper and glue or markers. Explain what the three colors on the traffic light mean.
- You can demonstrate the importance of Morgan's invention by playing "Red Light, Green Light" with your child. Have them stand across the room from you while you hold red, green, and yellow pieces of paper. When you hold up a green piece of paper, they can move quickly. When yellow, they need to move slowly and when red, they have to stop. Alternate between the three pieces of paper as they move toward you.

Open-ended question: Would you like to invent something? Tell me about it.
