

Ms. Powell's kindergarten class created some fiery volcanos!

Make Your Own Finger Paint at Home!

Young children love to experiment with painting, and finger painting is a good way to strengthen the muscles needed for writing. This easy recipe makes edible paint (in case paint gets into their mouth) that is fun to work with at home.

Materials: Plain yogurt and powdered Kool Aid packets (try different colors to make different color paint)

- Place some yogurt in a bowl, and then add a little of the powdered Kool Aid (start with a little, and add more if you want the color to be brighter).
- Mix the yogurt and Kool Aid together. You have finger paint! Repeat to make different color paints.

Let your child scoop the paints out of the bowls with their hands, and smear them on paper to make a painting. Your child can also make swirls with the paint! Let your child experiment with the paint.

Tell me about your painting. What do you see in your painting?

Judy Center Events

- Mommy Daddy & Me: Moms, dads, and caregivers bring their toddlers for a morning full of fun activities which promote vocabulary, math, and listening skills.
- Books for Me: The Enoch Pratt Free Library will bring a literacy workshop and books to Pre K and Kindergarten parents/caregivers.
- Circle of Security: Parents/caregivers learn how to support their children's learning and emotional growth.
- Welcome Spring: Parents/caregivers will welcome the spring season with hands-on Activities, snacks, and giveaways.

